In 2000, 410,000 students voted in Puerto Rico, and in 2008, over 425,000.

More than 1,160,000 students have learned the inside scoop about elections and democracy in Puerto Rico alone since our foundation in 1991. After eight Mock Elections, we are proud to say that we have shaped a new generation of voters to become better Puerto Ricans. In the United States, close to 50 million students have been trained by the National Student/Parent Mock Election on how to be better citizens. Together, the IFD and NSPME work hard to insure that democracy is taught, learned, protected and strengthened for future generations to come. Get all needed materials to participate through El Vocero, Telemundo, local media outlets, and at our websites www.mockelectionpr.com, and www.nationalmockelection.com.
